Big Bang Backs Bible Belief?

Based on the book Choosing Your Faith by Mark Mittelberg, from Tyndale House Publishers.

Everything that has a beginning has a cause. The universe clearly had a beginning.

The universe cannot be uncaused or self-caused.

Many secular scientists teach that the universe came from nothing, and was not caused by anything. Is this view sensible or rational?

It takes a great amount of blind faith to believe that the universe came from nothing without a cause. That is a bigger miracle than the biblical creation story.

Atheists are faith-based in their worldview. They have faith that there is no God.

People have never really lost their appetite for knowing truth.

People respect someone who believes his convictions deeply, but who does not try to cram them down another person's throat.

Mittelberg recommends a mixture of deep assuredness with the practice of asking many questions of the other person to learn about him and his opinions.
