Non-Christians Are God's Masterpieces – Show Notes

Based on the book SOUL REVOLUTION, by John Burke, published by Zondervan.

Imagine finding a Rembrandt painting in your basement, dusty, perhaps somewhat caked with mud. What would you do with that Rembrandt?

See non-Christians as God's masterpieces, as works of art waiting to be revealed.

As you point out God's artwork in a non-Christian's life to him, he might become more open to Christ.

Burke contends that Ephesians 2:10 can be seen as to include non-Christians. (We realize that different theologians would have different opinions on this point, but can see this principle being applied equally as well to the fact that each individual as God's creation).

He says that the Greek word poema can be defined as artwork.

Every person was created in his image and are a work of art waiting to be revealed.

Burke likes to train people to see non-Christians as God's masterpieces.
